Addressing the youth auxiliary of the Indiana Heart Association as keynote speaker at the 10:00 a.m. opening session will be Mr. Curt Linke, Public Relations Department, Proctor & Gamble Company, Cincinnati, who was a former Junior Heart Board member when he attended Columbus, Indiana high school.

After graduation from Indiana University, Bloomington, Mr. Linke was Public Relations Director for the Indiana Heart Association and has continued his interest in the Indiana Junior Heart Board since moving to Proctor & Gamble Company.

Invocation at the 12:30 p.m. luncheon in the Memorial Student Union ballroom will be given by Reverend Maxwell J. Webb, minister of the First Christian Church, Greencastle.

At the 1:45 p.m. session the Junior Heart Board members will elect a "Queen of Hearts" and the Queen's Court of Princesses to represent the Indiana Junior Heart Board and the Indiana Heart Association during the Heart Fund Drive for research in February of 1969.

The six candidates who will compete for the Queen of Hearts title are: Miss Vicki White, Elkhart; Miss Connie Miller, Rushville; Miss Jill Ruxer, Jasper; Miss Judy Barnett, Terre Haute; Miss Connie Evans, Indianapolis; and Miss Pam Behrman, Columbus.

Being a high school youth auxiliary of the Indiana Heart Association, Inc., the Junior Heart Board has the same purposes of the parent organization, the control of heart and blood vessel diseases.

The Board provides an opportunity for high school boys and girls to participate as members of a voluntary health agency in their communities. By having this educational experience, the members will be enlightened and experienced community health leaders.

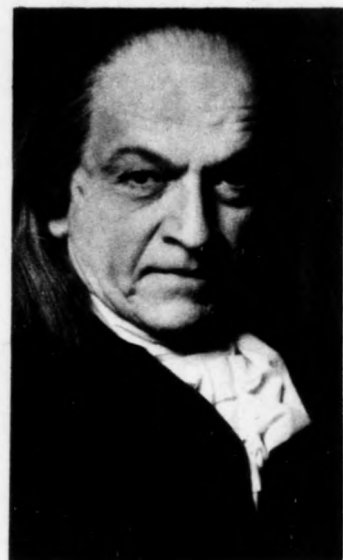

After the election of the Queen of Hearts and her Court of Princesses, the members will return to their homes throughout Indiana to work closely with the county Heart Association to fight diseases of the heart and blood vessels which are responsible for about 989,000 deaths yearly, or 54% of all deaths.

Actor to portray Franklin Friday

William Paterson

Benjamin Franklin will be recreated in a dramatic presentation actor William Paterson is to present at DePauw University Friday at 11 a.m.

Known initially in entertainment circles for his portrait of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Paterson will perform at a free convocation in Meharry Hall.

In this new profile of what Paterson calls "the greatest man the Western Hemisphere has produced," the actor presents the wide-ranging intellectual curiosity, the mature and practical wisdom and the gentle but penetrating wit of Franklin.

In conversation with an intimate group of friends, the Philadelphia publisher -- through Paterson -- talks of his life: the struggle to become established as a printer, in defense against Indian attacks, and missions to England.

At greater length the aging Franklin tells of the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, events of the American Revolution, and of the long and intriguing service as minister to France. Among the great acts of public history are scattered many delightful comments on private life, substantiating Franklin's place as the father of American humor.

Paterson is a graduate of Student committee supports Whitcomb

Secretary of State Edgar D. Whitcomb, Republican candidate for governor, "wants to lower the voting age to 18, and that's one of the reasons why I'm for him," Terry Lester, DePauw University sophomore, said.

Lester, governor of Boys State in 1966, made the remark after his appointment today as co-chairman of the Students for Whitcomb. The candidate previously announced that Miss Mimi Littlejohn of Indiana University, this year's 500 Festival Queen, also will serve as co-chairman.

"The natural rebelliousness of youth can be turned to America's greatest asset," Whitcomb said, in announcing the committee. "Our youth will shape America's future, and we have selected leaders for the Students for Whitcomb who contrast sharply with the campus beatniks who would degrade the very institutions they attend."

Lester, of 1001 Southview Dr., Indianapolis, is a student leader at DePauw, having served as president of the Freshman Inter-Fraternity Council and as a member of the Collegians, a student entertainment group. He won a letter in swimming and had the lead in the college play, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Lester also served as youth chairman for the Marion County Tuberculosis Association in 1967 and was a delegate to Boys Nation.

"Mr. Whitcomb would like to see young people have a greater voice in their government," Lester said. "He (Whitcomb) has proposed a Student Advisory

Wood serving on U.S.S. Ranger

Machinist Mate Third Class Steven O. Wood, USN, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis O. Wood of 126 Martinsville St., Greencastle, participated in Operation Beat Cadence, a training exercise, while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Ranger.

Operation Beat Cadence, conducted off the coast of Southern California, was designed to prepare the 30 Naval ships and 23 air units participating in the exercise for conditions in Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific.

The eight-day exercise consisted of two phases, strike and amphibious.

The strike force phase involved exercises to train First Fleet carriers, cruisers, frigates, and destroyers in all types of naval warfare.

In the amphibious phase, Marine units landed on the beach at Coronado, Calif., and made an assault landing at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Still endorses boycott

Student Senate supports town committee idea

by SHAUN HIGGINS
Banner Staff Reporter

Jay Hirshauer, head of the student boycott committee, told DePauw's Student Senatelast night that "We have no positive or definite indication of what will be done" in current dispute between the students and the City of Greencastle.

Hirshauer, though optimistic about a series of discussions now taking place between students and business men, warned the DePauw legislative body to "take everything you hear with a grain of salt."

Senate last night confirmed Hirshauer's decision to postpone a planned boycott of merchants until the talks had been given an opportunity to mend student grievances.

The grievances center around a recently passed city ordinance and a county election board ruling on student voting in the county.

Bob Fishburn, student co-ordinator of the student-merchant talks, asked Senate to indefinitely postpone the boycott as an act of good faith on the part of the students. Senate, however, rejected Fishburn's proposal and allowed the boycott action to remain on a "standby" basis in case negotiations break down.

Fishburn explained to students that the committee will seek merchant help in their fight to vote in Putnam County. He also said they will work for reconsideration of and perhaps alter its application to students.

According to Fishburn the students will try to get the city to change clauses in the ordinance. Such an alteration would require a person to violate all the points

Food for thought

The one-year extension of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 passed by the 90th Congress makes it virtually certain that the new 91st Congress, to be elected on Tuesday, November 5, will deal with government farm program legislation.

While the Act of 1965 is not now scheduled to expire until December 31, 1970, the new Congress can revise farm program legislation at any time.

That the new Congress should act in the interest of farmers by changing the law under which the parity ratio has fallen to 75 is certain. But some observers raise the question as to whether farm legislation will gain consideration at a time when Congress will face many other pressing problems.

The editor of the Jackson (Mississippi) Daily News notes that "this belief is based on disturbing facts. Slightly more than 94 percent of the nation's population live in cities; less than six percent live and work on farms."

"The vast majority of the members of Congress now come from the cities where many problems are becoming more critical, and there is a growing clamor for the expenditure of more money."

However, the Mississippi editor continues, "the people who live in towns and cities must realize the basic place of agriculture in American life and their dependence upon the farmers for food and fiber at reasonable prices."

"Agriculture is still the nation's largest industry. Our farms employ nearly six million workers, more than the public utilities, steel, and the automobile industries combined."

"Another 10 million people are employed in transporting, storing, processing, packaging, distributing, and retailing farm products."

"The nation's farms provide one of the biggest and most dependable markets for most of the products produced by industry."

"Every American, whether he lives in the city or on the farm, has a big stake in the maintenance of a sound and profitable agriculture," he concludes.

"There should be no misconception on the part of those who represent agriculture that the present farm program can be nursed along beyond the extra year already given by Congress," the Memphis (Tennessee) Commercial Appeal said in an editorial on September 27.

"This means there now is an obligation on the part of those who advocated this short-term extension to come up with proposed changes within the next year," the editor said.

Nixon claims his opponent has fast tongue on Vietnam

By MERRIMAN SMITH
SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI)—Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon today opened an intensive one-day swing through Michigan by heaping new criticism on Hubert Humphrey for a shift in position on Vietnam and for indiscreet public comments on the Paris peace talks.

Nixon flew to Saginaw from Toledo, Ohio, where he spent the night. He was greeted at his first stop, an airport rally, by several thousand persons and met by Gov. George Romney and other Michigan Republican officials.

In statements issued at Saginaw Nixon added to his overall criticism of the Johnson administration record on Vietnam with new personal jabs at Humphrey for his responsibility and involvement in the Johnson administration war record.

"To this dismal administration record my opponent brings the fastest tongue and the fastest switch of position ever seen in American politics," Nixon said.

"Mr. Humphrey has shown a constitutional inability to treat the Vietnam War and the peace negotiations discreetly, (or) for that matter, understandingly, ever since he started campaigning."

"I think the American people will question the peace-keeping capabilities of a candidate who from week to week shows on every issue he would rather switch than fight—rather spend than save, rather talk than mind his tongue on sensitive international matters," Nixon said.

"When a man is on all sides of the issue, he creates a great risk of miscalculation on the part of our adversary," Nixon said.

With a booming, energetic style of attack which has marked Nixon activities the closer he approaches election day, he told the Saginaw audience, sheltered from a chilly wind in an airplane hangar, that he was confident of victory, but intended to "take no chances" and would hit at Humphrey with increasing vigor.

He also warned the rally not to "go off on a third party fling" by voting for George C. Wallace, which would only help in electing Humphrey, thus maintaining the Johnson administration another four years.

ANOTHER POLLUTION PROBLEM

JIM BISHOP: Reporter

There was power under his big foot and the car crested the rusty hills of Connecticut and lifted and subsided under his beef. Sammy was 235, stretching the cheap suit at the shoulders and thighs. His face had sergeant's chevrons. This time, he said, this time would be the last.

At the cloverleaf, he coasted down and sneaked the car down the main street at sundown. Sammy toed in at a cheap beanery and locked the car and walked pigeon-toed to the counter and ordered muddy coffee and four of the big doughnuts with the jelly inside. The counter girl gave him a special look. "You going to wrestle again?" she said. Sammy nodded. "You going to win?" she said. He shrugged. "I'll be trying," he said.

By day he sold used cars on a lot in Lodi, New Jersey. It was a living. Wrestling was gravy. He used to get $35 a night; now it was up to $50. His ribs and his belly were tender for two days, and his wife nagged him to quit. Sammy wanted to stay because the armories were all within a hundred miles, and a "C" a month would pay the mortgage.

His wife won. Sammy hadn't told the promoter that this was the last one. He'd send a note tomorrow. He left a quarter for the counter girl and licked the jelly from his fingers. The walk to the arena was two blocks. He put five dimes in the parking meter and left the car at the beanery. Sammy was tired all the time. He was tired of selling cars to suspicious customers; tired of performing as a paid actor in the ring; tired of the nasal whine of his wife. Tired. Tired even in the morning. The armory consisted of a million sunburned bricks. In the ceiling, big moth-lights glared at the ring. A soup plate of seats arched up on all sides. The early fans drank beer and ate hot dogs. An old lady yelled: "You bum, you!" as Sammy walked by. He walked toward the high dusty windows and down the steps to the dressing rooms. It smelled of sweat and urine and tincture of iodine.

The Man was there. He nodded to Sammy, and pointed to the room on the left. Three wrestlers were lacing up high shoes and hanging saggy trousers on hooks. One was crouching and pressing his legs down, and his knees cracked. Sammy said hello. They could hear all the feet on the wooden floor overhead. The savages were coming in.

The Man waited until Sammy was in his tight. Then he called him in the hall. "You angel," he said. "I just got the word. The opener is going for 17 minutes. The Elephant will heel it tonight. He throws you out of the ring before the first fall. Pick your rope when he gives you the word. On your way back, give him time to roar at the crowd. The Elephant is going to rabbit punch you, some knee work, a head butt and a foot twist. "Do we open?" Sammy said, surprised. "Yeah." The Man looked at his watch. "You got eight minutes. We need a rouser to work the crowd up. The thing goes 17 minutes, no more. The

Mental exam ordered

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI) — A mental examination was ordered today for David Evans, 22, charged with stabbing an Indiana girl to death in a crowded department store because she refused him a date.

Mabel L. McLaughlin, 19, of Plymouth, Ind., was stabbed 13 times in the chest last Saturday while horrified customers in the store looked on. Police said Evans shouted "Nobody stands me up," before attacking the girl.

Court appointed attorneys Paul McGlone and Leo Sutherland won a postponement of a hearing Tuesday to obtain a sanity study. They said the defendant had a history of mental problems. Magistrate Cyril Jeffers set Friday for the hearing after Dist. Atty. Joseph Cimino agreed to the postponement.

In memoriam

In memory of our dear Mother Jennie Murphy, who passed away four years ago today, Oct. 24, 1968.

Mother you are not forgotten though on earth you are no more. Still in memory you are with us as you always were before. You often said we would miss you.

These words have proved true. We lost our best and dearest Mother when we lost you.

We saw you fading like a flower. But could not make you stay. We nursed you with loving kindness until God called you home.

Oh! Mother dear we loved you. Our hearts ache for you still. Forgotten by some others.

But by us you never will. Sadly missed by the children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Longden was born in Newtown, and educated at Newtown High School and the Terre Haute Business College. For a time she was a secretary at Purdue University, and in recent years assisted her husband in the operation of Terrace View Gardens in Greencastle.

She was active in church and community affairs. She was a devoted worker in the Sunday school program of Gobin church, as teacher and superintendent, and held several offices in the Women's Society of Christian Service on both local and district levels.

She was active in Girl Scouts, the Putnam County Hospital Guild, and was a past president of the Putnam County Federation of Clubs. She was a member of the Federated Reading Club, Over the Teacups, and the Progress History Club. She was active in politics, and had served as secretary of the Putnam County Republican Workshop.

She is survived by her husband, Grafton Longden, Jr., two daughters, Mrs. Rick Buchanan of Greencastle, and Patti Longden, a junior at DePauw University; a grandson, Christopher Buchanan; her mother, Mrs. George Kirkpatrick of Wingate, Ind.; two brothers Kenneth Kirkpatrick of Linden, Ind., and Robert Kirkpatrick of Veedsburg, Ind.; a sister, Mrs. Imogene Butler of Los Alamitos, Calif., and several nieces and nephews.

Marion falls

By United Press International
Twice beaten Logansport yanked third-ranked Marion from the perfect ranks Wednesday night, 13-0, in one of the biggest upsets of the Indiana high school football campaign but three other lofty teams emerged as winners.

Logan, outweighed an average of 40 pounds per player, scored its stunning North Central Conference upset by intercepting six passes and recovering a fumble that set up its second touchdown, a two-yard plunge by Jim Hassett.

Ron Collins scored the Berries' first marker on a 57-yard punt return.

Mario had previously clinched the NCC pennant, but the loss clipped the Giants' winning streak at seven.

The three ranking Indianapolis elevens, all unbeaten, led the elite to victory.

Fourth - rated Washington spanked city foe Northwest, 34-6, as Louis Day with four touchdowns and four conversions ran his season total to 153 points, tops in the state.

No. 6 Chatham toyed with suburban Beech Grove, 42-0, quarterback John Gruesser firing three touchdown passes to end Dick Proffitt, and No. 8 Cathedral edged Broad Ripple in another all-city scrap, 13-6.

Terre Haute Gerstmeier moved a step closer to another Western Conference crown, blanking city foe Garfield, 26-0.

Willie White set a Gary scoring record for a single game, getting 42 points in West's 70-6 breeze over River Forest. White scored seven touchdowns as his 42 points broke the old mark of 40 held jointly by Dick Sturt.

ridge of Emerson in 1922 and Levi Mitchell of Froebel last season.

White carried 15 times for 240 yards as West won only its second game against five losses.

Jimtown belted Triton, 59-7, in a game halted by mutual consent of both coaches after eight minutes of play in the final period. Jimtown ran up a 33-0 lead in the first period.

Games Friday night feature top-ranked Elkhart against Michigan City, No. 7 Gary Andrean against city foe Wirt, and No. 9 Chesterton against Calumet.

Second - rated Bloomington takes on SCC foe Columbus Saturday night, while No. 5 Evansville Mater Dei, which hasn't given up a point to an opponent all season, meets city rival Bosse and Jeffersonville, tied for ninth spot with Chesterton, collided with neighbor New Albany.

Yanks may wrap up Olympics

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN
UPI Executive Sports Editor
MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The United States may be wrapping up the 1968 Olympic Games championship down at the ol' swimming' hole.

With only three full days of competition remaining in these games, the Yanks have rolled up 35 gold medals and an overall total of 81 medals—a commanding lead over defending champion Russia, which has 15 gold and 49 overall and keeps running into one disappointment after another.

And if that Yankee lead is too big for the Soviets to overcome—as now seems possible, you can write it down that the United States won the unofficial team title with an utterly fantastic exhibition in swimming.

Including three upsets triumphs Wednesday by Sharon Wichman, Kaye Hall, and Mike Burton, plus an expected victory by Charles Hickcox, U.S. swimmers have won the gold medal in 16 out of 21 events, one more than Russia's entire total. There are 11 swimming events left which are certain to swell the U.S. total.

Four Finals Today
With four of those swimming finals slated Thursday, it is virtually certain that sometime on this day the United States will equal or surpass its 1964 Olympic Games haul of 36 gold medals and maybe even its 1964 overall total of 90 medals.

The Soviets, on the other hand, are a long way from approaching their '64 totals of 30 gold medals and 96 overall. The unofficial team crown which the Soviets have worn since 1956 could be slipping off rapidly.

Finals in swimming today are the women's 800-meter freestyle, men's and women's 200-meter butterfly and the men's 200-meter freestyle. There also are gold medals at stake in team foil fencing, gymnastics and shooting.

All three victories in swimming Wednesday were surprises—now the Yanks are winning even when they're not supposed to. Miss Wichman of Fort Wayne, Ind., turned the tables on two girls who had beaten her in the 100 meters, to take the women's 200-meter breaststroke in an Olympic record 2:44.4.

Miss Hall of Tacoma, Wash., upset Canada's Elaine Tanner to win the women's 100-meter backstroke in a world record 1:06.2. And Burton, of Carmichael, Calif., beat another Canadian star, world record holder Ralph Hutton, to take the men's 400-meter freestyle in 4:09.4.

Wins Second Gold
Hickcox, of Phoenix, Ariz., won his second gold medal of the games by taking the men's 400-meter individual medley in a close battle with teammate Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif. West Germany's Michael Holthaus just touched out Greg Buckingham of Atherton, Calif., to prevent a U.S. sweep.

Wednesday marked the first time the United States won a gold medal in these games in something other than track or swimming—and to do it right, it won two.

Bill Steinkraus of Noroton, Conn., who had failed to win even a bronze medal in four previous Olympics, was rewarded for his patience with a gold medal in Grand Prix individual jumping—the first gold medal ever won by the United States in a jumping event. The 43-year-old veteran rider, riding a horse named Snowbound who once failed to make the grade as a racehorse, finished ahead of Marion Coakes of Great Britain.

And Gary Anderson of Axtell, Neb., an Army lieutenant, took the gold medal in free rifle shooting—breaking both his own world and Olympic records as he totaled 1,157 to erase his old mark of 1,156 and 1,153. Anderson merely holds seven world championships, five world records and 10 American championships.

Basketball Finals Set
The Americans also are assured of a medal in basketball, when they meet Yugoslavia in the finals Friday night, and of seven medals in boxing because that many fighters have reached the semifinals.

The seven are heavyweight George Foreman of Houston, middleweight Al Jones of Detroit, light middleweight John Baldwin, also of Detroit, light welterweight James Wallington of Philadelphia, lightweight Ronnie Harris of Canton, Ohio, featherweight Albert Robinson of Oakland, Calif., and light flyweight Harland Marbley of Washington, D.C.

Greencastle's Rick Harlan closes in on Brazil's fullback Steve Smith.

Big Ten Football

CHICAGO (UPI)—It will be Minnesota power against Michigan speed Saturday and both the Wolverines and Gophers are plotting defensive maneuvers aimed at reining their rivals.

"Our preparation is entirely different this week from last week. Minnesota tries to overpower you while Indiana relies on speed," coach Bump Elliott of Michigan said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, at Minneapolis, coach Murray Warmath was attempting to devise a defense against Michigan scabbard George Hoey, whose kick returns gave the Wolverines a 15-0 halftime lead in last year's Little Brown Jug clash, finally won by Minnesota, 20-15.

Michigan is a 21-14 favorite in the game at Ann Arbor.

While Michigan and Minnesota are meeting in a duel which could drop one or both from a first place tie in the Big Ten, Ohio State is expected to have an easy time of it, taking on winless Illinois.

To complicate coach Jim Valer's job of getting ready for the second-ranked and unbeaten Buckeyes, Illinois guard Doug Redmann, probably the best Illini lineman, was carried off the practice field Wednesday with a knee injury. However, fullback Rich Johnson returned to the Illinois lineup, recovered from a shoulder injury.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf announced that Purdue is completely healthy again, two weeks after the drubbing at the hands of Ohio State. And that could be bad news for Iowa's Hawkeyes, who meet Leroy Keyes and company Saturday.

Keyes, still nursing a sore knee, ran at almost full speed Wednesday, something he was unable to do in last week's narrow victory over Wake Forest.

At Bloomington, Ind., the news was even grimmer. Five starters, including fullback John Isenbarger, were on the sidelines Wednesday. But Indiana coach Johnny Pont said he still hopes all five will be ready for the nonconference meeting with Arizona.

Michigan State, a victim of Minnesota and Michigan so far this season, had a date with fifth-ranked Notre Dame and coach Duffy Daugherty said the Irish have "probably as fine personnel as I've seen on any college team." The Spartans rehearsed their passing and wide running Wednesday.

The contestants for king of the cellar, Wisconsin and Northwestern, both worked on defense Wednesday for their Saturday meeting.

The Badgers' Coach John Coatta said a defensive scrimmage "was not a particularly good one." Alex Agase added a fourth man to Northwestern's three-man secondary to defend against the pass patterns of Wisconsin's Mel Reddick.

Near miss

Boston (UPI)—American League teams narrowly missed breaking their all-time attendance record in their final season as a 10-team organization according to official gate receipts reports.

The league, which will add new franchises in Kansas City and Seattle for the 1969 season in an expansion to a 12-team circuit, drew 11,317,258 last season with the pennant-winning Detroit Tigers leading the way.

Red Devils whip Tiger Cubs 37-0

by MARK STEELE

It was the same sad song for coach Jim McCammon and his Greencastle Tiger Cub team last night as Brazil's stymied last half offense unreeling 31-points in the second half and coasted to a 37-0 win over the 2-6 Cubs.

For the Cubs it was their third straight shutout in Western Indiana Conference competition and fourth defeat in five starts.

Greencastle's defensive squad stopped the Red Devils twice from inside the 15-yard line in the first half, but the Cub offense had difficulty in moving the ball.

A three-yard run was all the scoring Brazil managed the first half as they rushed for 102 yards and passed for 78 included in eleven first downs.

Four completed passes by junior quarterback Rick Bundy and sophomore signal caller Scott Loring to senior end Darryl Pierce netted 63 yards in the initial half for Greencastle.

However, it was a different story in the second half when a Bundy to Tony Harmless toss went for a minus four yards.

Olympic cash offer not closed

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Although a U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC) spokesman said the investigation of whether U.S. athletes took cash subsidies isn't "closed," the whole matter appeared today to be just exactly that.

"The matter isn't closed," insisted the spokesman, "but we've gone as far as we can unless someone can provide concrete evidence."

The Olympic Village here has been buzzing with gossip for several days about whether any track and field athletes have received cash from certain European track and field equipment manufacturers for using their merchandise. And the whole affair seemed to take on substance when an unidentified U.S. runner reported to team officials that he had found $500 in one of his track shoes.

But a three-pronged investigation by the USOC, the International Olympic Committee (IOC), and the International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF), the ruling body of world track, appeared now to have run into a dead end.

In a statement Wednesday night, acting director Everett Barnes of the USOC said his group had found "nothing to substantiate" the reports that U.S. Olympic stars had accepted cash subsidies.

"If anyone has any concrete evidence to offer about United States athletes in this connection, we shall be pleased to follow up the information," Barnes said.

Brazil's 58 yards passing in the second half came on two of three passes, two airdrops good for touchdowns. Junior end Mike Wilson scored on a 22-yard pass from quarterback Tony Butwin in the third period and backup quarterback Marvin Snow closed the contest with a 20-yard bomb to sophomore end Ralph Thompson as time ran out.

The Tiger Cubs made their best scoring effort starting from their own 3-yard line in the first quarter. Greencastle took over after stopping Brazil on the Cubs three by recovering a fumble, then marched down field on a series of passes and runs up the middle to Brazil's 22 yard line.

Cub halfback Dan Murphy squirted 17-yards through the center of the Red Devil line on the first play from the three. A Loring to Pierce pass netted 13 more yards and a third down 11 situation was aided by a pass interference penalty made good to the Greencastle 47. Another Bundy to Pierce pass moved the ball to the Devil's 24 and fullback Pat Luzar carried for two more before Brazil tightened the middle.

From the second half opening kick-off it was just a matter of time before Brazil wore down the Cubs defensive squad.

Sophomore fullback Mike Patrick, a 184 pound bull, charged for two touchdowns of 38 and 16 yards in the third and fourth quarters respectively.

The win gives Brazil a 3-1-1 WIC mark and a 5-2-1 overall slate. Greencastle is 1-4 in loop action with Clinton at home November 1 (Homecoming) and Honey Creek there November 8, both conference tilts.

In other conference games, front running Gerstmeier ran over Garfield 26-0 and surging West Vigo made it four in-a-row by handing Honey Creek a 20-13 setback.

Gerstmeier is now 6-0, West Vigo is 4-4, Garfield dropped to 3-4 while Honey Creek sunk to 1-5.

Scoring: Brazil (second period) Weddle, 3 yd, run, kick failed; (third period) Kellum, 3yd, run (Thompson kick); Wilson 22 yd, pass from Butwin, (kick failed); Patrick 39 yd, run (kick failed); (fourth period) Patrick 16 yd, run, kick failed; Thompson 20 yd, pass from Snow kick failed. Did Kennedy family try to stop wedding?

By SHEILA WALSH
NIDRION, Greece (UPI)—Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis broke off their honeymoon today to let the Greek multimillionaire attend to business, an aide said. In Boston, Cardinal Richard James Cushing said Kennedy family associates tried to block the wedding.

An officer of Onassis' $3 million yacht Christina said the former Jacqueline Kennedy and her bridegroom were using a private helicopter and plane to fly later in the day to Athens. The aide said Onassis had urgent business in the Greek capital.

In Boston, the Roman Catholic Church prince and Kennedy family friend defended Mrs. Onassis' marriage and said he had encouraged the match.

"I know what she had been going through for many, many months . . . I have been contacted by many of those who are identified in high places with the administration of the late President (and) by others intimately related and associated with the Kennedy family to stop all this from taking place—namely, that Jack's widow, God rest him, would marry Aristotle Socrates Onassis.

"Finally she came to me secretly and unknown and unannounced. Only one person was with her, a Secret Service man. She spoke to me about two hours . . . and I encouraged and helped her in every possible way," the cardinal said.

Cushing did not name any members of the Kennedy personal and political family in his speech. But he attacked Mrs. Onassis' critics.

"This idea of saying she's excommunicated, she's a public sinner, what a lot of nonsense! Only God knows who is a sinner and who is not," he said.

The Vatican announced Monday Mrs. Onassis, a lifelong Catholic, was being barred from receiving church sacraments as punishment for marrying a divorced man. A church official said she became a "public sinner" by wedding Onassis Sunday.

Cushing also said he knew the marriage was coming for months. "I had a letter from her that would be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars if I allowed any of the national secular magazines to publish it," he said. "I burned the letter. My lips are sealed."

Vatican officials don't believe ears

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Vatican officials reacted with disbelief today to Cardinal Richard James Cushing's statement that the former Jacqueline Kennedy could marry "whomever she wants."

Msgr. Fausto Vallain, the official Vatican spokesman, reaffirmed the Vatican position that the former American First Lady is in an "irregular position" with the Roman Catholic Church because of her marriage to the divorced Aristotle Onassis, and is barred from church sacraments.

"I agree with the cardinal's statement that only God knows who is a sinner," he said. "But whoever contravenes the law of the church incurs her sanctions."

Southern state incumbent should win

By HORTENSE MYERS
INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The four congressmen representing the southern half of Indiana are regarded as fairly sure of reelection unless some dramatic happenings upset present political observations.

For example, assume that a cease-fire in Vietnam and a seeming end of fighting were to occur and that this would mean an upsurge in votes for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Political polls in the 8th District indicate that Rep. Roger H. Zion, a Republican, will win over his Democratic challenger, Evansville City Judge K. Wayne Kent, mainly on the basis of an expected big vote for Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee.

In Vanderburgh County, the biggest and the one with a reputation as a bellwether presidential county, 35-year-old Kent is expected to do well. He has been a strong vote-getter in his home city and his views and those of Zion, 47, are, from the public point of view, somewhat alike. They have made joint appearances.

"Who's Most Conservative?" "The trouble the audiences appear to be having is in finding differences in points of view," one astute Evansville observer said. "The question seems to be who can be the most conservative."

A less-than-expected vote for Nixon apparently would make the biggest impact in the 8th. However, it could be a factor in the 6th, where Republican veteran Rep. William G. Bray is a strong favorite to defeat his Democratic challenger, Phillip L. Bayt, former Indianapolis mayor and currently a member of the Indiana Public Service Commission, and in the 7th, where incumbent Republican Rep. John T. Myers is far in front of his Democratic challenger, Elden C. Tipton, Jasonville, a retired Navy officer and teacher.

In the 9th, the loan Democrat among the four congressmen serving Southern Indiana, would benefit from an improved vote for Humphrey. But Rep. Lee Hamilton already is considered ahead of his GOP opponent, Robert D. Garton, a management consultant firm official in Columbus.

However, a Columbus observer commented that "if anybody has a chance to beat Hamilton, it is Bob Garton." Hamilton, a Columbus attorney seeking a third term in Congress, is about the same age as Garton—he is 37, Garton 34—and both have campaigned with vigor and imagination.

Shoulder Boy Model "House and Garton" tours have been staged by Garton's friends to help finance his campaign. These are unusual or interesting homes and gardens opened for public visits for a fee.

Pastor turns down bishop position

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI)—The Rev. John Elford, 46-year-old pastor of St. Patrick's Church here, has announced he turned down appointment as auxiliary bishop of the Fort Wayne-South Bend Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church for "personal reasons."

Father Elford, whose appointment was announced by the Vatican last July 25, said Pope Paul VI had granted his request to decline the appointment.

He did not elaborate on his reasons for not accepting but said in a letter made public that he reached his decision "only after much prayer, thought and counsel" and that now "I am at peace."

One of Hamilton's campaign photographs showing an attractive little boy riding on his shoulders. The Garton campaigners tried with little result to make an issue of the fact it was a boy model and not one of Hamilton's three children.

Another factor in the southern half of the state is redistricting. Bray, seeking his 10th consecutive term, is the dean of Republican congressmen now that Rep. Charles Halleck has retired. He has only three of the same counties which were in his 1966 district, and in one of those—Marion—he has a different assortment of townships. However, an evaluation of the 1966 results shows that he would have won in the six counties of his current district with 64 per cent of the total.

Zion, seeking a second term, apparently will benefit still further by redistricting, which worked to his advantage in defeating the incumbent Democratic congressman, Winfield Denton, in 1966. Clark County, which is consistently Democratic, was sliced from the 8th and put in Hamilton's 9th District before the 1966 election. Then a further redistricting, effective this year, took Democratic Floyd County out of the 8th and in the 9th, which presumably again will help Hamilton.

State Budget committee approves $2.7 million for two state parks

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The Indiana State Budget Committee has approved expenditure of $2.7 million for work on McCormick's Creek and Dunes State Parks but took no action on Indiana University requests for approval of a new publications building and an addition to the physics building costing a total of $9 million.

However, the committee approved purchase of a church property as part of the future site of the Indianapolis regional campus and a revised financing plan for the IU library center at Bloomington which involves a $2 million increase in bonding authority.

The committee took the action at a meeting late Tuesday but did not meet with Governor Branigin. A budget agency spokesman said the governor approved the IU library bonding plan but other items are yet to be considered by Branigin.

The IU plans to finance the library center, costing $14 million, were thrown off by a reduction in federal loans under the Higher Education Facilities Act. The university was first advised it could borrow $6 million, but this was cut when the Health, Education and Welfare Department put a ceiling of $4 million on all loans under the act. The new plan calls for $4.7 million in federal grants, $4 million federal loan and $5,395,000 in bonds.

The committee also approved purchase of $73,000 of the Mount Olive Baptist Church property in an area planned as the Indianapolis Regional Campus. But it took no action on a request to appoint architect for a physics building addition to cost $8.2 million and a request to construct a $1 million publications building using 1967 bonding authority.

Other action included:

—Approved the expenditure of $1.7 million to redevelop McCormick's Creek State Park, including new water supply and sewage disposal systems, new swimming pool and bathhouse, visitors center, campground, amphitheater and more picnic facilities.

—Approved $1 million for development of Dunes State Park including two new parking areas, new beach pavilions, and water and sewage disposal systems.

—Denied a request to add eight security officers to the Indiana Women's Prison.

—Denied a request to transfer 23 Central State Hospital employees from the farm colony to the main hospital.

—Authorized replacement instead of rehabilitation of two wards at Logansport State Hospital.

—Approved $98,000 for air conditioning dining areas at the Norman Beatty Hospital.

S. Vietnamese will release Red captives

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese government spokesmen said today they planned the largest release of Communist captives of the war. The announcement came as allied weekly battle deaths fell to the lowest point of the year, reflecting a lull in fighting.

US aircraft losses, however, rose sharply with the downing of seven planes and helicopters in a 24-hour period, military spokesmen said.

On the ground Wednesday, U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops plunged into the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and killed 112 North Vietnamese soldiers in a three-hour battle. Government spokesmen said they planned to release 140 Communist captives. It was the third gesture of its type since the lull in fighting began amid reports in world capitals that a full bombing halt over North Vietnam was imminent along with a breakthrough in the preliminary Paris peace talks.

An allied casualty report covering the weekly period beginning Oct. 13 said U.S. combat deaths were 100, the lowest weekly toll since Aug. 12, 1967. The previous week 177 Americans died in Vietnam fighting. U.S. wounded last week totaled 589, the lowest figure since the week ending last Dec. 3.

South Vietnamese battle deaths dropped to 132 last week, the lowest figure this year.

Communist forces initiated no major attacks in South Vietnam Wednesday. They took their casualties in attacks launched by American and South Vietnamese forces.

Military spokesmen were reluctant to attach significance to the fact the slowdown in fighting corresponded to the bombing halt reports. A U.S. military spokesman said, "It is our opinion that the enemy is regrouping, resupplying and refitting as it was following the Tet and May offensives."

The South Vietnamese government described its plan to release the Communist prisoners as a "tolerant and humanitarian gesture." A spokesman, asked if the move had any relation to reported peace proposals, said "details will be provided later."

The spokesman said the prisoners would be freed within a week, probably Oct. 30, with the release taking place in Saigon.

U.S. authorities freed 14 North Vietnamese sailors Monday Radio Hanoi in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo today said the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front freed 11 government soldiers "recently."

Communist gunners shot down four American planes and three helicopters in South Vietnam Tuesday and Wednesday, military spokesmen said. The planes were downed in the northern sector and one of them crashed inside the southern portion of the DMZ, the six-mile-wide buffer zone that separates the two Vietnams.

Three of the planes were observation aircraft, and all four crewmen aboard them were killed. The fourth was an F100 Supercobra and the pilot ejected safely after the craft was hit.

The losses brought to 318 the number of planes downed in combat in South Vietnam. The three helicopters downed brought to 900 the number of U.S. choppers lost in the South.

On the Farm Front

By BERNARD BRENNER

UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential candidate George C. Wallace's farm program proposals would produce sharp increases in price supports for a number of major crops including corn, cotton and wheat.

But at the same time, Wallace's program would limit farm support payments to big farms. And the third-party candidate's platform states that Wallace would adopt a long-term policy of working toward gradual relaxation and elimination of farm production controls and subsidies.

The move toward a non-control, free market agriculture is seen in the Wallace platform as a slow and "lumpy" development. Eliminating controls and subsidies, under the former Alabama governor's plan, would depend on "the increase in farm income to a level making subsidy unnecessary."

For the short run, the heart of the Wallace farm plan is a pledge that his administration would immediately raise farm supports to 90 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity level. And, Wallace's platform adds, Congress would be urged to raise the support ceiling to 100 per cent of parity.

As for production controls needed to permit such support levels without piling up surpluses, the Wallace platform states that Congress would be asked to allow farmers to vote on whether or not to accept controls.

Such a system already is in effect for some crops, including cotton, tobacco and peanuts. For grain crops, farmers now can individually choose to ignore government controls or to accept them in return for the right to get price supports.

Proposed 750 mile waterway meets first opposition

CHICAGO (UPI)—A proposed 750-mile waterway across Indiana ran into its first formal opposition Wednesday in the second of three public hearings by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Conservationists constituted the bulk of the objectors to the navigable waterway, which received unanimous support earlier this month at a hearing in Terre Haute, Ind. The third hearing is set next Wednesday at Toledo, Ohio.

The project, known as the Cross-Wabash Valley Waterway, was proposed by the Wabash Valley Association, a citizens' group based at Mount Carmel, Ill., which praised it as a builder of a sagging Midwestern economy and as the "missing link" in the nation's water transportation system.

The major portion of the waterway would be in the rich Wabash River basin, currently undergoing a comprehensive river basin study ordered by the Public Works Committees of the Public Works Committees of the U.S. House and Senate.

The waterway, which would demand construction of canals and the use of rivers and tributaries in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, would begin at Toledo on Lake Erie and run southwest to the Ohio River at Evansville, Ind., through the Indiana cities of Fort Wayne, Lafayette and Terre Haute.

One leg would veer off into Illinois, north of Terre Haute, and connect with the Illinois Waterway to Chicago. Another would run north from the Lafayette-Logansport, Ind., area to the Calumet area ports on Lake Michigan.

LeMay warns of false Viet moves

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (UPI)—Curtis E. LeMay says false Vietnam peace moves may come from Washington or Hanoi before election day to influence the American voter.

But the vice presidential candidate on the American Independent Party ticket of George C. Wallace said Tuesday night the United States should not neglect "any genuine peace offers or concessions."

"I warn the American people that between now and election day, some gesture is going to be made by either Washington or Hanoi to indicate that peace is in the offing," the 62-year-old former Air Force chief of staff told 300 flag-waving supporters at an airport rally.

State to present writings in Sirhan case next month

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The prosecution in the trial of Sirhan B. Sirhan intends to introduce as evidence certain writings of Sirhan who is charged with the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker, who will preside at the trial scheduled to start Dec. 9, Tuesday denied a defense motion to suppress the notebooks and other belongings taken from Sirhan's bedroom without a search warrant.

Walker said he was not ruling on the admissibility of the evidence that only that it should not be suppressed. Defense attorney Russell E. Parsons said he would not appeal the pretrial ruling but would fight against introduction of the notebooks during the trial.

Parsons argued unsuccessfully during the hearing that police had no right to enter the home in Pasadena 12 miles from the Ambassador Hotel here where Kennedy was fatally wounded early June 5.

Sgt. William E. Brandt of the Los Angeles Police Department testified he and another officer entered the home with the permission of Sirhan's brother, Adel, 30, in the course of an investigation into a possible conspiracy in Kennedy's killing.

Adel testified he told police his mother was the owner of the home but requested they not disturb her.

Mary Sirhan, the mother, also called as a witness, testified she never gave permission for the police search but Judge Walker held this was not necessary.

At a news conference following the pretrial hearing, chief Dep. Dist. Atty. Lynn Compton said the state intends to introduce some material from the seized notebooks as evidence.

It would include a notation reading, "Kennedy has to be assassinated before June 5, 1968"—the first anniversary of the six-day Israeli-Arab war.

Sirhan is a native of Jordan, one of the Arab nations engaged in a continuing struggle against Israel.

Humphrey accuses Nixon of playing loose with nation's security

By ROY MCGHEE
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert Humphrey accused his Republican presidential opponent, Richard Nixon, today of playing "fast and loose" with the security of the nation.

Humphrey made the accusation in a speech while campaigning for votes at the historical Alamo, Texas' most sacred shrine.

The vice president's noontime audience was composed largely of Mexican-Americans, who in turn make up a significant, and perhaps crucial portion of the Texas electorate.

With only two weeks left in the campaign, Humphrey said it was time to ask the central question:

"Who can the American people trust to lead this country for the next four years?"

He said Nixon had made two decisions in the campaign "which speak directly to this crucial issue of trust."

"First, he decided who should be his vice presidential running mate—the man who would be a heartbeat from the presidency itself in this nuclear age,"

Humphrey said, "and Mr. Nixon chose Spiro T. Agnew—a so-called urban expert who says, 'When you have seen one slum, you have seen them all,' a man who says he cannot wait to try out his new-found experience in foreign policy."

"I think my Republican opponent played fast and loose with the security of this nation," Humphrey said.

Humphrey then chided Nixon for his second decision:

"He decided to say nothing else for the rest of the campaign."

Warming to his audiences, and confident.

Humphrey appeared somewhat recovered from hoarseness that had hurt his voice in Dallas-Fort Worth appearances of Tuesday. Humphrey said Mexican-Americans have some special problems.

He said Democrats understand the importance of preserving a people's cultural tradition with the passage of the bilingual education act. This, he said, was the first federal recognition of the importance of the ability to speak two languages.

Humphrey appeared jovial and confident.

Highway bids accepted totaling $3.3 million

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—The Indiana State Highway Commission Tuesday opened bids on 16 projects and got 12 low offers totaling $3.37 million.

The bid-opening program for this month was reduced drastically because of federal fund cutbacks. There was only one project in the multi-million dollar class, for paving 6.6 miles on Indiana 135 in Harrison County for which the low bid of $2,375,746 was filed by Ruby Construction Co., Louisville.

Other projects and eligible low bids were:

Vanderburgh County — Demolition on U.S. 41, B & B Wrecking & Excavating, Cleveland, $35,775.

Marion — Demolition on Interstate 65 and 70, B & B $116,850; surfacing on U.S. 31 and Ind. 100 junction, Indiana Asphalt Paving, Indianapolis, $116,803; traffic signals on Ind. 100 and L70, Welsbach Corp., Indianapolis, $11,265.

Sullivan — Bridge over Busseron Creek on Ind. 58, J. L. Wilson Co., Bloomfield, $214,036.

Putnam — Bridge over Little Walnut Creek on county road, Weddle Bros., Bloomington, $152,416.

Tippecanoe — Bridge on Ind. 26, Morris W. Holley & Son, Kentland, $114,163.

Drilling operations start in Mill Creek watershed

The first geological investigations of proposed dam sites in the Mill Creek Watershed are now underway, according to Max L. Evans, Area Engineer for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Drilling operations will be performed at the location of each dam site, prior to final design, to determine underground soil conditions. Findings will be used in the final design of the earthen dams.

Drilling operations were completed last week on the Roland Buis farm in Marion Township, Putnam County. Two other sites to be investigated are now located on the Gilbert Milhon farm in Cloverdale Township, and the Thomas Crafton farm in Jefferson Township, both in Putnam County.

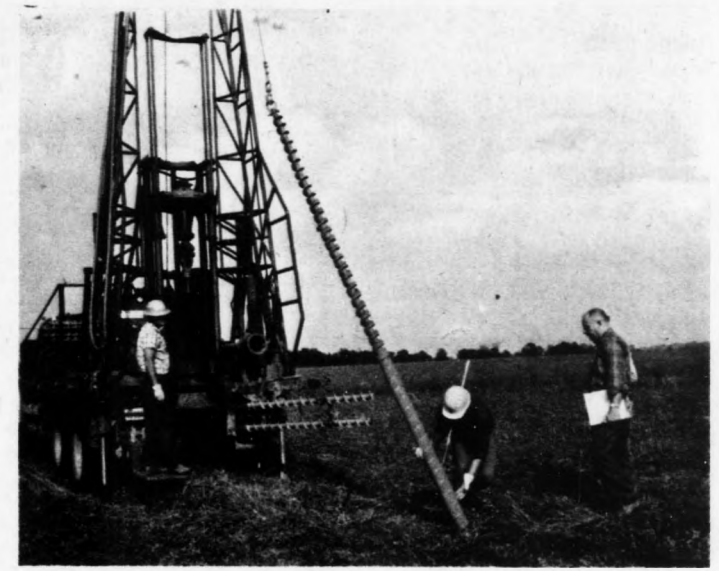

These three dam sites are to be the first built. Fourteen dams in all are planned for construction in the Mill Creek Watershed area to help prevent flooding in the area.

Two of the sites are presently planned to have additional water added for recreational use. The Mill Creek Watershed covers an area of approximately 187,136 acres in parts of Putnam, Hendricks, Morgan, and Owen Counties.

Soil samples being taken at each dam site will be sent to the Soil Conservation Service Soil Mechanics Laboratory at Lincoln, Nebraska, for testing and analysis. A detailed report will be prepared on the soil samples as to dam building properties.

Whitcomb calls for life term

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial nominee Edgar D. Whitcomb Tuesday said his Indiana Anti-Crime Conference would consider proposals calling for a life term for a person convicted of using firearms in the commission of a felony.

Whitcomb's conference would convene after the election, if Whitcomb wins. Its purpose would be to make recommendations to the 1969 Legislature.

Whitcomb said a similar proposal for a life term in firearm crime convictions was made by GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

The gubernatorial candidate said he was "100 per cent opposed" to new federal firearms registration proposals. He said new legislation "should be aimed at providing stiffer penalties (for existing laws), not at penalizing law-abiding citizens who have guns either for protection or for sport."

Second patrolman may face charges

MARION, Ind. (UPI)—A city policeman resigned Tuesday, one day after his partner was arraigned as a suspect in a burglary Sunday morning and authorities said the second patrolman may face charges.

City Atty. Lloyd Cochran announced Tuesday Patrolman Robert Sorrell has submitted his resignation to Police Chief Ted Null after two years on the force.

John Faer, a veteran of 11 years on the force, was arraigned Monday on second-degree burglary charges stemming from the theft of clothing from the Marion Elks Country Club Sunday. Faer was released on $2,000 bond and was suspended by Null.

Cochran said the Marion Board of Public Works has sent information in the case to the Grant County prosecutor.

Demos still feel Indiana is not lost

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien sent a telegram to Hoosier party members Tuesday assuring them that "neither the vice president nor the Democratic National Committee has written off Indiana as lost to Nixon forces."

The telegram apparently was in response to reports that Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Democratic presidential nominee, and the party would spend little time or money on Indiana in the belief Richard Nixon was sure to win here.

O'Brien's telegram to the Humphrey headquarters here said "We now have reason to believe that with a redoubled effort throughout the state, Indiana, which is a predominately Democratic state, may well be counted in the 'won' column Nov. 6."

U.S. to resume arms shipment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is resuming shipment of arms to Greece, which was suspended after the military junta seized power there in May, 1967.

The State Department said in an announcement Tuesday that the action was based on "the need for strengthening the NATO alliance in Central and Eastern Europe." Authoritative sources said the big factor was the Soviet-bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Elephant will call each shot before he makes it. I think you ought to throw him out of the ring before the final fall."

Sammy didn't have to be told when the 17 minutes were up. The referee would do that when the Elephant was on top of Sammy in one of the one-shoulder falls. He went back to the dressing room. As usual, the Man kept all the angels in one dressing room. The heels were across the hall.

The Elephant, a big gentle kid who was still in college, was in the ring when Sammy arrived. There were a few raindrops of applause, and the Elephant walked across the ring and slapped Sammy coming through the ropes. The referee warned the Elephant; the crowd booed; the Elephant made gestures of tearing the limbs from the referee one by one.

The match was routine. In the clinches and locks, the big kid told Sammy his next shot, and they worked it out nicely with nobody getting hurt. After the decision, the Elephant roared with rage and Sammy flattened him with a punch and the crowd yelled "Kill him!" Sammy looked around as he stepped out of the ring. The women customers' eyes always listened.

He dressed and took his money and the Man talked about a match in Philadelphia. Sammy said sure. He walked pigeon-toed back to his car and started for home. His right side hurt. Something, it seemed, was always hurting. But being tired was worse.

The car crested the hills at 75 and Sammy's eyes watched the needle sleepily. He would make the trip safely once more and he knew his wife would say: "Did you quit? Did you? Did you? Did you?" and he would fall on the bed with his nose in the coolness of the pillow.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The

successful flight of the Apollo 7 moonship means that the next U.S. president will be confronted with a difficult decision in fixing budgetary priorities.

Should he allot millions of more dollars to continue the program aimed at the conquest of outer space?

Or should he divert this money into another program aimed at the conquest of the common cold?

With their near perfect performance, the Apollo crew members reminded us that man's age-old dream of reaching the stars apparently is neering reality.

But they also reminded us that man's age-old dream of curing the sniffles apparently is as far from fulfillment as ever.

By making an all-out effort, the United States likely could achieve one of these goals. It is doubtful, however, that the nation's resources are great enough to support both quests simultaneously.

It will be up to the president to choose between them, and I certainly don't envy him that task.

One thing the president must keep in mind is the historical perspective. Is history to record that the first human being to set foot on the moon had a runny nose?

Chances are that scholars of the future would find this incongruous, to say the least. How could a nation have been advanced enough for space travel if it were baffled by post-nasal drips?

Another consideration is the question of whether the space program can ever expand to its full potential as long as the cold problem remains unsolved.

It isn't easy for man to keep his eyes on the stars when his nose is buried in a handkerchief.

These factors would seem to weigh in favor of giving cold research priority over the space program. However, there is also a chronological precedent to take into account.

At some point in his deliberations the president will ask: which came first, the cold germ or the moon?

The current consensus is that the moon was formed before the advent of the cold germ. It may therefore be argued that the moon probes are entitled to first call on the Treasury.

There is even a remote possibility that a cure for colds will be found on the moon.

Our astronauts may discover that the germs are killed by earthlight.

President signs bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law today a measure broadening educational benefits for military veterans or their widows.

In a ceremony in the cabinet room at the White House, Johnson said the new legislation guarantees four years of college for two years of military service.

At the same time, Johnson issued a proclamation formally designating Nov. 11, the 50th anniversary of the World War I armistice, as Veterans Day.

The bill expands the length of educational assistance to attend college or training schools to one and a half times the length of service by a veteran, up to a maximum of 36 months.

The bill also extends for the first time educational assistance to widows of servicemen killed on duty or to wives of veterans who suffer 100 per cent service-connected disability. Minor dependents of such veterans receive such assistance, once they complete high school, under prior laws.

U.S. to resume arms shipment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is resuming shipment of arms to Greece, which was suspended after the military junta seized power there in May, 1967.

The State Department said in an announcement Tuesday that the action was based on "the need for strengthening the NATO alliance in Central and Eastern Europe." Authoritative sources said the big factor was the Soviet-bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia.

—Bishop

Elephant will call each shot before he makes it. I think you ought to throw him out of the ring before the final fall."

Sammy didn't have to be told when the 17 minutes were up. The referee would do that when the Elephant was on top of Sammy in one of the one-shoulder falls. He went back to the dressing room. As usual, the Man kept all the angels in one dressing room. The heels were across the hall.

The Elephant, a big gentle kid who was still in college, was in the ring when Sammy arrived. There were a few raindrops of applause, and the Elephant walked across the ring and slapped Sammy coming through the ropes. The referee warned the Elephant; the crowd booed; the Elephant made gestures of tearing the limbs from the referee one by one.

The match was routine. In the clinches and locks, the big kid told Sammy his next shot, and they worked it out nicely with nobody getting hurt. After the decision, the Elephant roared with rage and Sammy flattened him with a punch and the crowd yelled "Kill him!" Sammy looked around as he stepped out of the ring. The women customers' eyes always listened.

He dressed and took his money and the Man talked about a match in Philadelphia. Sammy said sure. He walked pigeon-toed back to his car and started for home. His right side hurt. Something, it seemed, was always hurting. But being tired was worse.

The car crested the hills at 75 and Sammy's eyes watched the needle sleepily. He would make the trip safely once more and he knew his wife would say: "Did you quit? Did you? Did you? Did you?" and he would fall on the bed with his nose in the coolness of the pillow.

100 Americans lost lives last week

SAIGON (UPI) — One hundred Americans died on Vietnam battlefields last week, U.S. military spokesmen said today. It was the lowest weekly death toll in more than a year.

The death toll of 100 for the seven days ending Oct. 19 was the lowest weekly count since the week ending Aug. 12, 1967. It was 57 fewer than the previously weekly low for 1968—the 157 Americans killed in the week ending July 20.

The decrease in casualties reflected what military spokesmen have called a lull in ground fighting in Vietnam. The lull may be tied to new efforts to bring about a settlement of the conflict, some diplomatic observers said.

Another 589 Americans were wounded in fighting last week, the spokesmen said. It was the lowest number of wounded since the week ending Dec. 30, 1967. South Vietnamese war dead during the week totaled 132, the lowest weekly figure of 1968.

The previous weekly low in government combat deaths was 156 in the week ending July 20. Another 624 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded last week, Communist terrorist attacks killed 25 civilians, a figure also below the average.

Hanoi rejects mutual de-escalation of war

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Hanoi has rejected an American plan for mutual de-escalation of the Vietnam War but hinted it would open peace talks almost immediately if the U.S. would halt bombing of North Vietnam, diplomatic sources said today.

A ceasefire in the war might be among the first steps in such peace talks, the sources said.

They said Hanoi fears it would lose too much prestige if it flatly accepted an American offer to end the bombing in return for pulling North Vietnamese forces from the South Vietnam border, halting attacks against South Vietnamese cities and agreeing to the Saigon government's participation in peace talks.

But the sources said it was understood Hanoi might tacitly de-escalate and plunge into real peace talks if the Americans ended their air and sea bombardment.

Compromise Possible

The sources said it "is touch and go" whether a compromise can be reached between Hanoi and Washington, which has insisted North Vietnam must agree to mutual de-escalation to get an end to bombing.

Other diplomatic sources termed the chances of getting real peace talks going at about 50-50.

Diplomatic sources said Hanoi is now debating hotly within its own political and military councils the latest American package proposals for a breakthrough in the stalled Paris negotiations.

Some leaders were reported to favor talks now, for fear that a new administration in the United States might prove tougher in the coming year. Others prefer to wait and take their chance.

Hanoi was reported standing firm on its thesis that it cannot and will not publicly offer anything in return for an American halt in the bombing, the Americans being considered the "aggressors."

Might Show Restraint

It was understood Hanoi might quietly de-escalate and above all compromise on measures of restraint in the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam. These moves would not involve an immediate withdrawal of the North Vietnamese from the zone, but might have a bearing on their infiltration of new forces, the informants guardedly indicated.

The further American condition that Hanoi and the Viet Cong stop terror attacks on South Vietnamese cities apparently is easier to accept for the Communists.

Another condition reportedly involves prisoners of war.

The key issue, however, remains the representation of South Vietnam at the talks.

Hanoi still refuses to allow the Saigon government to represent South Vietnam at the peace conference table. It wants it reshaped into some form of acceptable coalition, with the National Liberation Front (NLF)—the Viet Cong's political arm—represented in one form or another.

This hand is from a par contest. South arrives at three no-trump on the bidding shown and West leads the ten of hearts. South is expected to make the contract without seeing the opponents' cards, but to do so, he must avoid two traps.

Declarer's first test comes on the opening lead. He should duck the heart in dummy and also duck in his hand when East follows low.

It is not difficult to place West with the king of hearts, and declarer should refuse the first trick in order to interfere with East-West communications. If he makes the mistake of winning the heart lead, he is eventually defeated when East returns a heart upon taking the lead with the queen of diamonds.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television viewers will be wooed by record-length paid political broadcasts in prime time the night before the Nov. 5 presidential election.

Campaign backers of Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace have purchased blocks of the key viewing hours on Nov. 4, with all three networks serving as outlets.

Nixon's election eve appeal will be in the form of a two-hour broadcast in the time slot normally reserved for NBC-TV's Monday night movie: 9 to 11 p.m., EST.

Entitled "Ask Richard Nixon," the program will be live from NBC-TV's Burbank, Calif., studio facilities, with the candidate replying to questions phoned in by the national television audience.

Humphrey's broadcast also will last two hours, on ABC-TV, and will start 30 minutes before the Nixon program, at 8:30 p.m., EST, pre-empting "Peyton Place," "The Outcasts" and the first half of "The Big Valley" time slot.

According to network sources, a broadcast for the Wallace campaign is expected to occupy the last half of "The Big Valley" slot: from 10:30 to 11 p.m., EST.

Like Nixon, Humphrey will originate his election eve program from the Los Angeles area, and also will answer questions from viewers who phone in. A Humphrey aide said Wednesday night that vice presidential nominee Edmund Muskie might well be on hand too, and that celebrities are expected to help answer phones.

Nixon, by the way, will reply to questions for four hours so that his broadcast can be live on both coasts during the 9 to 11 p.m., time period. Humphrey, according to his aide, will answer queries for two hours, meaning his program will be live as it heads for points East, but will then be fed back on tape later for the West.

WINAMAC, Ind. (UPI)—Funeral services were scheduled Thursday afternoon for Edmund C. "Ned" Gorrell, 89, editor of the Pulaski County Democrat weekly newspaper for 50 years and a past president of the Hoosier State Press Association.

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (UPI)—Three persons were killed Tuesday in a three-car accident near New Castle, increasing Indiana's 1968 traffic fatality toll to at least 1,192 compared with 1,205 a year ago. The victims in the Indiana 38 wreck were Ronald Morgan, 17, Ronald Massingale, 18, and Earl Wilkinson, 74, New Castle.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—A little rain was recorded in the northern half of Indiana Tuesday and early today and a chance of showers exists for parts of the state tonight. No further precipitation was expected thereafter before Sunday. Highs and lows will continue mostly in the 50s and 60s and the 30s and 40s into early next week.

The Nixon broadcast, notes NBC-TV, will be "relayed to Hawaii via satellite, marking the initial use of a communications satellite for a political telecast."

CBX-TV, meanwhile, will offer two half-hour political programs on election eve. The first, at 7:30 p.m., EST, is for Humphrey. The second, at 9 p.m., EST, is for Wallace. "Gunsmoke" has been eliminated from the network that night as CBS-TV altered its schedule slightly.

LeMay's home state shows Nixon winner

By RICHARD E. LIGHTNER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio politicians said a month ago support for third-party candidate George C. Wallace would drop off as the Nov. 5 election drew nearer.

Now they point to polls which show Wallace's support in Ohio, the home state of his running mate, Curtis LeMay, has dropped about 8 percentage points.

Top Republican leaders predict Richard M. Nixon will carry the state as he did in 1960 when he took Ohio's 26 electoral votes by 273,000 popular votes. This time they predict a landslide.

State Democratic Chairman Eugene (Pete) O'Grady claims Hubert H. Humphrey will "win in a horse race" which he now considers "dead even" in Ohio.

In the race for the U.S. Senate, Republican William B. Saxbe clings to a slim lead over Democrat John J. Gilligan. One television network said Gilligan would win.

If present trends hold, Ohio would cast its electoral votes for Nixon and elect Gilligan to the Senate.

Humphrey trailed Nixon by 6 to 8 points Sept. 27 but two polls now show Nixon's lead has dropped to 2 points. One of the polls gives the former vice president the lead on a 35-33 count while the other shows his lead at 36-34.

The two polls show Wallace at about 20 per cent. The Democratic National Committee poll gives him 19 per cent while a private pulse taker gives him 17 per cent.

One Democratic source told United Press International the former Alabama governor would get 20 per cent of the vote, with 12 per cent of it at the expense of Humphrey.

However, a Republican said the addition of LeMay, former Air Force chief of staff, to the Wallace ticket would hurt Nixon more than Humphrey.

O'Grady said, "the strong hawk vote which Nixon was getting will now go to Wallace" because of LeMay, often described as "a hawk's hawk."

Republicans cite splits in the Democratic Party, what they feel is a bad television image for Humphrey and a return to the GOP ranks by Negroes. They predict a rise from the 5 per cent Negro vote for Barry Goldwater to 15 per cent.

O'Grady credits Humphrey's campaigning, television and his programs with the success the vice president has had in pulling nearer to Nixon.

'Mission must be safe'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At the moment everything is gung ho for the moon—round it in December, on it next summer.

But "You can be sure," says Dr. Thomas O. Paine, that Apollo astronauts never will be committed to any mission—this year or any year—unless the responsible officials involved are as certain as they can be that the mission will be safe and is likely to succeed.

Paine is acting chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). He was as pleased as everybody else that "our confidence in the Apollo spacecraft was so well confirmed" by the 260-hour flight of Apollo 7.

But, he told United Press International, NASA has no intention of allowing itself to be pushed into hasty decisions by any pressures of any kind.

The maiden manned flight of Apollo 7, along with many previous unmanned spacecraft and rocket tests, proved that the United States has the kind of spacecraft, astronauts, and space power it must have to fly to the moon and eventually make a landing there.

No Decision Yet
But that doesn't mean a decision is possible now about the nature of the next Apollo missions.

Paine said "a high level review board here at headquarters" will study detailed reports of the Apollo 7 flight before the NASA management decides whether to make the Apollo 8 mission, scheduled for late December, a manned flight in orbit or around the moon.

This decision, he said, cannot be made before Lt. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, Apollo program director, has gone through "all the tapes" from the Apollo 7 flight and made his recommendations. This will be around mid-November or a little before.

Apollo 7's has been described as "a perfect performance." But it nevertheless generated a number of questions that have still to be answered—among them the why of astronauts' susceptibility to cold infections in space.

Fears have been expressed that NASA, whose funds have been cut by Congress this year, might feel impelled to bring off a stunt of some sort—such as a circumlunar flight with men—to "improve its budgetary position."

No Hasty Maneuver
This is silly, according to Paine. A hastily contrived space spectacular which ended in disaster would be the worst possible thing that could happen to the NASA program, he feels.

Whether December's Apollo 8 mission goes as far as the moon or just drifts in earth orbit, it will be one of the most critical flights in the lunar landing program.

It will be the first manned mission of an Apollo spacecraft boosted into orbit by the Saturn 5. This is America's moon rocket, a monster nearly five times as powerful as the Saturn 1 rocket which carried Wally Schirra and his Apollo 7 teammates into the skies.

Actually, no final decision about a flight around the moon for Apollo 8 can be made until the moment when, shortly after launch, Saturn 5 proves itself in its first performance with a manned spacecraft on top.

Test Lunar Module
Even if Apollo 8 turns into a successful lunar orbit flight and return, the most important mission prior to a moon landing will still have to be flown.

This is Apollo 9, scheduled for February. This will be the first test in earth orbit, with men aboard, of the "lunar module" designed to lower two Apollo astronauts to the surface of the moon and hoist them back to space on the great day when a lunar landing is attempted.

The moon lander, according to Paine, "is the most critical piece of equipment" in the Apollo project. Until it is tested in flight, no one can say when it will be possible to put astronauts on the moon.

But by the end of March, Paine said, "We should be in good position to say whether a moon landing is possible in 1969 or whether it will have to be postponed until 1970."

RICHARD NIXON grins a friendly face while campaigning in Miami, Fla., that of Florida's Republican Gov. Claude Kirk.
